JFK Bullet Experts Face Questions

LOS ANGELES — Seven ballistics experts who determined there was no evidence that a second gun was used in the Robert Kennedy assassination will be cross-examined on their findings, the district attorney's office said. Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wenke scheduled three days of hearings to take the testimony from the men Nov. 17-19.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Tom Kranz said that Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp requested the cross-examination to "once and for all settle the sometimes libelous criticism of the district attorney's office for its handling of the Sirhan case."

After firing the revolver takennas evidence in the Kennedy slaying, the experts issued a report discounting the so-called "second gun" theory.
